INTRODUCTION

'Procurement' refers to the process of engaging contractors, suppliers and consultants for the construction of various works, facilities or supply of goods or providing related services for development projects. The procurement function involves substantial investments that are often funded from loans or credits provided by International Financial Institutions (IFIs) such as the World Bank, Asian Development Bank, African Development Bank, etc. this Programme explores, explains and clarifies the World Bank procurement and Consultant Guidelines of January 2011 (Revised July 2014) in detail

According to the International Financial Institutions, the term 'Procurement' is applied broadly to the acquisition or purchase of works, goods, non-consulting services, and consultancy services of a project. Broadly the five stages involved in the procurement process for a project are:

- ▶ Identification of unique procurement needs
- ▶ Procurement plan preparation and approval, and preparation of bid documents
- ▶ Bid opening, evaluation and award of contract
- ▶ Contract administration, payments, claims and disputes
- ▶ Closing of Contracts and project evaluation.

The World Bank and the multi-lateral/bilateral agencies have been providing loans, Credits and grants for various developmental projects in countries all over the world. The deployment plans for procurement functions of implementing agencies are often confronted with problems and delays due to lack of trained personnel. The trained officials, if available, can cope with and perform complex national and international procurement operations at every stage of the project in accordance with the guidelines and procedures of the funding agency. This has been identified as one of the major reasons for the delay in award of contracts, management of contracts and consequential time and cost overruns in many projects all over the world.

In order to assist borrowers to improve and speed up procurement operations, over the last 22 years, the Administrative Staff College of India has been conducting this Programme on a self-sustaining basis, in association with The World Bank and the Department of Economic Affairs, Ministry of Finance, Government of India, and with Global Procurement Consultants Limited. The aim of the Programme is to build capacities for better understanding of the underlying the core principles of the World Bank's procurement regulations as applicable to various stages of the project from the planning to final completion and acceptance. The Programme provides principles and procedures to be followed by the World Bank funded projects, based on the Regulations of the Bank and opportunities to learn from experienced professionals.

The Programme addresses the main types of methods of procurement and their application, and describes the relevant procedures for soliciting competitive bids and the subsequent processes for bid evaluation, award of contract and implementation of agreements.
