

Programme on
Urban Infrastructure
Project Preparation and Management
August 10 – 12, 2017

ADMINISTRATIVE STAFF COLLEGE OF INDIA

PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

Projects enable service delivery improvement and in consequence, human development. Project preparation is a key building block in encapsulation of a project and must therefore be carefully done with sufficient rigour and necessary details on inputs, processes, outputs, and outcomes. A project report must also ensure appraisal, approval, and subsequent project implementation in a planned manner. In short, a project report is not a bounded volume of pensées on a sector but a document that has scientific rigour built into it.

On the ground, it is however observed that project reports are hurriedly prepared, consultant driven, and do not stand the test of rigour in the field, particularly during implementation. As well, little or no attention is paid to operational aspects and post-implementation maintenance. As a result, post approval ownership of DPRs is seen as limited.

It is in this context that ASCI is on request of local and state governments conducting a short, three-day capacity development programme on 'Urban Infrastructure Project Preparation and Management'. The programme lends special focus on key sectors under flagship programmes of MoUD (Smart Cities, AMRUT, PMAY, HRIDAY). Besides, the programme shall pragmatically demonstrate to participants state-of-the-art techniques in project monitoring and management.

IMPACT

- improved capacity of local government officers in project preparation for key urban infrastructure development sectors,
- heightened awareness in the areas of outcome-based and service-delivery oriented planning and development,
- significant improvement in development of rigour and scientific temper among ULB staff to undertake in-house development and appraisal of Project Reports,
- vastly improved understanding of tools and techniques to monitor and manage project implementation, and, inter alia,
- overall development of local government capacity in activity planning, monitoring, and management

Prof. MS Raghavendra PhD(Cambridge)
Programme Director

May 11, 2017

Dear Sir/Madam,

Programme on Urban Infrastructure Project Preparation and Management (August 10 – 12, 2017)

Administrative Staff College of India (ASCI) is pleased to announce a three day training programme on Urban Infrastructure Project Preparation and Management between the 10th and 12th of August, 2017.

Projects are instruments to improve urban socio-economic development. Reports estimate investment requirement of the magnitude of Rs. 40 lakh crore in the ensuing two decades to maintain acceptable levels of infrastructure and service delivery in our towns and cities. While a large share of investment is likely to be met through private sector investment and partnerships, recently launched GoI programmes such as AMRUT, Smart Cities, Swachh Bharat Mission, PM Awas Yojana, National Urban Livelihood Mission, HRIDAY (Heritage City Development and Augmentation Yojana) are likely to lead to immediate investment aimed at rounded urban development. Project reports will thus perform heightened role in enhancing development impact of investment.

The training programme aims at building in-house capacity of staff in ULB administration and engineering/housing departments in the complete project development cycle, including preparation, monitoring, and management. We also recognize contribution of technology in tools to monitor and manage projects and will familiarise participants to such tools and techniques.

ASCI is pleased to invite you to participate in the enriching training programme. If you are otherwise unable to participate in the programme, I request you to kindly nominate key officers concerned with various stages of the project development cycle in your department.

We look forward to receiving your nomination at an early date.

With warm regards,

MS Raghavendra

Let us together contribute to improve our quality of life. You will agree our HDI is poorly placed at 136!
