Programme Overview

SAFE CARE.....SAVES LIVES.....SAVES MONEY

Hospital Infection Prevention and Control is one of the most neglected areas in Public Hospitals. Public hospitals are providing health care services to large number of patients but in that process, can we afford to ignore the increasing problem of Health care Acquired Infections and Antimicrobial Resistance for these patients?

Hospital Infection Prevention and Control (HIC) is the lowest hanging fruit for reducing newborn and maternal mortality / morbidity (due to Sepsis) and for strengthening Quality of Care Around Birth.

The content of this course is not just limited to Area of Concern F: Infection Control of LaQshya and NQAS certification standards, but also to improve quality of care provided to the patients - Area of Concern G (Quality) and Area of Concern H (Outcome).
