PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

Leadership is the process through which an individual tries to influence another individual or a group of individuals to accomplish a goal. Well-being is being recognised as a significant performance-driver and as such the case for well-being programmes is compelling. Well-being can improve leadership skills, employee engagement, stress management and resilience, as well as lower staff absenteeism and staff turnover. Leadership is valued in our culture, especially when it helps to achieve goals that are beneficial to the population, such as the enactment of effective policies. An individual with leadership qualities can also improve an organisation and the individuals in it. This programme is designed around integrated principles of leadership and well-being as they go to the core of performance and enhance sustainable well-being. These include frameworks such as positive psychology, the six pillars of resilience, emotional intelligence, executive coaching and a consistent promotion of self management.
