(accredited as उत्कृष्ट by Capacity Building Commission, GoI)

PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

With trade catalyzing global economic growth, it has become essential to integrate sustainability principles into trade policies and practices. Environmental concerns such as climate change, resource depletion, and pollution pose significant challenges to long-term trade viability. With evolving international trade barriers, it is important to understand how global policies (such as CBAM), market dynamics, and consumer preferences are shaping the demand for environmentally responsible products and production processes.

The three-day training programme aims to equip the participants with comprehensive insights into the intersection of trade policies and sustainability practices. The programme will delve into national and international efforts to promote green and sustainable practices, explaining the importance of sustainable production processes in the light of evolving trade regulations. Participants will gain an understanding of the repercussions of high carbon footprints on market access and explore strategies, tools, and technologies to address forthcoming trade barriers. Through interactive sessions, case studies, and expert discussions, attendees will uncover best practices and the respective roles of companies and governments in driving sustainable trade.
