PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

The imperative for change in organisations has become high, due to rapid shifts in technological, social, political and aspects. Small changes by organisations attempting to adjust to stakeholder demands are enough for the immediate time.

Hiring people, fostering collective effort are necessary but not enough. To grow an organisation sustainably, through difficult times, in uncertain circumstances, Critical Thinking in groups is crucial for continuously growing the organisation.

Critical Thinking with its systematic, comprehensive approach may be learnt and practiced collectively, in organisations by key managers, cross-functional groups, project teams, to think through deeply on re-design and re-delivery of work efforts to enable organisational growth.
